Storage of Data

Data is stored in our own IT systems or in 3rd party systems provided by suppliers who have a GDPR policy in place. We will not share personal data with a third party other than our approved suppliers whose systems or services are critical to the running on the business.

Transmission of electronic data can never be 100% secure and as a result we cannot guarantee the safety of data transmitted between us. We employ up to date anti-virus systems and firewalls to protect our data/network. We actively apply security/software updates to our internal IT systems to ensure they receive all available system/security update patches.

Where we provide Web Hosting services

Web hosting is provided by an ISO9001 3rd party supplier who has a GDPR policy in place. Software updates and strong security passwords are critical to the health of your website.

How we use your Personal Data

We use your data to allow us to work together and to fulfil our contractual duties. We also use your personal data for correct and accurate billing purposes. We may use your personal data to notify you of goods and services which we believe are of interest. We will not sell or share your personal information to 3rd parties for marketing purposes.

Sharing Your Information

We may share your information with our approved suppliers where the sharing of your personal data is intrinsic to the running of our business or the fulfilment of our contract. Examples include, but may not be limited to: accounting software providers, providing a delivery address to our approved printing partners or sharing your information with solicitors where legal action is required. We will also share your information with any legal or regulatory body where we are duty bound to do so.
